

The first step in the process is to identify the problem. This involves gathering information about the situation and the people involved. Once the problem is identified, the next step is to analyze the situation. This involves looking at the data and the information gathered to determine the cause of the problem.

After the cause has been identified, the next step is to develop a plan. This involves determining the steps that need to be taken to solve the problem. Once a plan has been developed, the next step is to implement the plan. This involves putting the plan into action and monitoring the results.

Finally, the last step in the process is to evaluate the results. This involves looking at the data and the information gathered to determine if the problem has been solved. If the problem has not been solved, the process starts over.
