Families in the U.S. Karen V. Hansen, Anita Iltis Garey, 1998 Attempts to do justice to the complexity of contemporary families and to situate them in their economic political and cultural contexts This book explores the ways in which family life is gendered and reflects on the work of maintaining family and kin relationships especially as social and family power structures change over time

International Macroeconomic Dynamics Stephen J. Turnovsky, 1997 International Macroeconomic Dynamics provides extensive applications of important macroeconomic dynamic models to the international economy For a long time the study of macroeconomics has focused almost exclusively on a closed economy and downplayed the role of international transactions Today however researchers recognize that one cannot fully understand domestic macroeconomic relationships without considering the global economy within which each country operates Increasingly economists are treating international transactions as an integral part of the macroeconomic system and international macroeconomics has become an area of intensive research activity International Macroeconomic Dynamics provides extensive applications of important macroeconomic dynamic models to the international economy It adopts the main contemporary macroeconomic framework the representative agent model and develops a series of models of increasing complexity The author considers both small and large economies and analyzes them in both deterministic and stochastic contexts The emphasis is very much on the development of the analytical models a novel feature is the extensive use of continuous time stochastic methods While the author applies the models to a range of important policy issues particularly issues of fiscal policy the reader is invited to view the analyses as blueprints for other applications
