

Chapter 1: The Concept of Stress Adaptation

Stress

- Stress may be viewed as an individual's reaction to any change that requires an adjustment or response, which can be physical, mental, or emotional.

Roy's Adaptation Model

- Roy (1976) defined adaptive response as behavior that maintains the integrity of the individual.
- Adaptation (adaptive) is viewed as positive and is correlated with a healthy response.
- When behavior disrupts the integrity of the individual, it is perceived as maladaptive.
- Maladaptive responses by the individual are considered to be negative or unhealthy.

Introduction

- The word stress lacks a definitive definition.
- Adaptation is defined as restoration of homeostasis to the internal environmental system.
 - Person is adapting- moving along in life, its not perfect
- Adaptation includes responses directed at stabilizing internal biological processes and psychological preservation of self-identity and self-esteem.
 - Person will have things going on but they are not getting out of control
- Maladaptive responses are perceived as negative or unhealthy and occur when the integrity of the individual is disrupted.

Stress as a Biological Response

- Hans Selye defined stress as "the state manifested by a specific syndrome that consists of all the nonspecifically induced changes within a biologic system."
- "Fight-or-flight" syndrome.
 - › Initial stress response → should be able to calm down
 - › Sustained stress response
 - › It has become apparent that the fight-or-flight syndrome of symptoms occurs in response to psychological or emotional stimuli just as it does to physical stimuli.
 - › Psychological or emotional stressors are often not resolved as rapidly as physical stressors, so the body may be depleted of its adaptive energy more readily than it is from physical stressors.
 - › When the stress response becomes chronic, the body's existence in the aroused condition for extended time periods promotes susceptibility to disease.
