

Chapter 11, Lesson 1

Set I (pages 430–431)

The chameleon's coiled tail is a pretty good approximation of a logarithmic spiral different from that of the chambered nautilus. Its graph can be obtained from the polar equation, $r = 1.162^\theta$, where θ is the measure of the rotation in radians and $-2\pi \leq \theta \leq 5\pi$.

Exercises 20 through 30 show a special case of the fact that, in any right triangle, the altitude to the hypotenuse divides the hypotenuse into two segments that have the same ratio as the square of the ratio of the legs. The general case will be considered in a later exercise.

Exercise 31 appears in the Elements as Proposition 17 of Book VI: "If three straight lines be proportional, the rectangle contained by the extremes is equal to the square on the mean." (Euclid includes its converse in the same proposition.)
