Japan and the Enemies of Open Political Science David Williams, 2002-11-01 The central argument of Japan and the Enemies of Open Political Science is that Eurocentric blindness is not a moral but a scientific failing In this wide ranging critique of Western social science Anglo American philosophy and French theory Williams works on the premise that Japan is the most important political system of our time He explains why social scientists have been so keen to ignore or denigrate Japan s achievements If social science is to meet the needs of the Pacific Century it requires a sustained act of intellectual demolition and subsequent renewal

The Boundaries of EC Competition Law Okeoghene Odudu, 2006

This monograph addresses two problems surrounding the interpretation and application of Article 81 of the EC Treaty what is competition and how does Article 81 ensure that competition is protected After over 40 years of application and a period of modernisation decentralisation and reflection it is possible to understand Article 81 and what it seeks to achieve The monograph s aim is to reveal the intellectual order and rational structure underlying the law so as to enable the reader to understand Article 81 in a clear and rigorous manner This is done by breaking Article 81 down into its constituent elements and examining the function that each element serves Arguing that jurisdiction rests on a public private distinction both the substantive and the justificatory rules are cast to generate obligations appropriate for private actors to perform Actors and activities falling within the scope of Article 81 are subject to the substantive element prohibiting contrived reductions in output Since output reduction can co exist with cost reduction innovation and that these latter features are desirable cost reduction and innovation operate to justify infringement of the substantive obligation Thus this monograph argues that output cost and innovation are the only legitimate issues in an Article 81 analysis It is in this sense that the monograph is concerned with the boundaries of Article 81 EC Singapore National Bibliography ,1988 The Accountant ,1937

Buiter,1999 It is not common for an entire scholarly literature to be based on a fallacy that is on faulty reasoning misleading or unsound argument The fiscal theory of the price level recently re developed by Woodford Cochrane Sims and others is an example of a fatally flawed research programme The source of the fallacy is an economic misspecification The proponents of the fiscal theory of the price level do not accept the fundamental proposition that the government's intertemporal budget constraint is a constraint on the government's instruments that must be satisfied for all admissible values of the economy wide endogenous variables Instead they require it to be satisfied only in equilibrium This economic misspecification has implications for the mathematical or logical properties of the equilibria supported by models purporting to demonstrate the properties of the fiscal approach These include overdetermined internally inconsistent equilibria anomalies like the apparent ability to price things that do not exist the need for arbitrary restrictions on the exogenous and predetermined variables in the government's budget constraint and anomalous behaviour of the equilibrium price sequences including behaviour that will ultimately violate physical resource constraints The issue is of more than academic interest Policy conclusions could be drawn from the fiscal theory of the price level that would be harmful if they influenced the actual behaviour of the fiscal and monetary authorities The fiscal theory of the price level implies that a government could exogenously fix its real spending revenue and seigniorage plans and that the general price level would adjust the real value of its contractual nominal debt obligations so as to ensure government solvency When reality dawns the result could be painful fiscal tightening government default or unplanned recourse to the inflation tax
