Economics Advanced Level November 2014:

South Asia Economic Focus Spring 2014 World Bank Publications, 2014-04-10 Gradual removal of stimulus policies continues as developed economies follow their expected path of slow but sustained recovery After suffering from international portfolio rebalancing triggered by gradual removal of quantitative easing in the US announced in May 2013 India in particular and South Asia more broadly have managed to reduce external vulnerability However growth across the region continues to falter while formidable domestic challenges remain to be tackled The overall short and medium term outlook for South Asia remains cautiously positive External vulnerabilities are gradually giving way to domestic downside risks as primary concern for growth and macroeconomic stability Hence as previous regional economic updates have argued any positive development in growth will depend on progress isolating domestic threats to and building buffers for macroeconomic stability strengthening the investment climate and removing infrastructure bottlenecks Over the short and medium run the economic fortunes of South Asian economies will depend in part on financial sector developments In the short term the key question is how further monetary contraction in the US will affect them Over the medium run it will be crucial to achieve more robust and efficient financial intermediation to ensure greater resilience to shocks and that resources are allocated to fund major remaining infrastructure gaps This edition's focus section attempts to answer the first question and sheds light on risks in the South Asian banking sector

East Asia and Pacific Economic Update April 2014 World Bank World Bank, 2014-05-13 Developing countries in the East Asia Pacific region will see stable economic growth this year bolstered by a recovery in high income economies and the market's modest response so far to the Federal Reserve's tapering of its quantitative easing according to the East Asia Pacific Economic Update Developing East Asia will grow by 7.1 percent this year largely unchanged from 2013 the report says As a result East Asia remains the fastest growing region in the world despite a slowdown from the average growth rate of 8.0 percent from 2009 to 2013 In China growth will ease slightly to 7.6 percent this year from 7.7 percent in 2013 Excluding China the developing countries in the region will grow by 5.0 percent slightly down from 5.2 percent last year

East Asia and Pacific Economic Update October 2014 World Bank, 2014-10-09 In China growth will gradually moderate reflecting intensified policy efforts to address financial vulnerabilities and structural constraints and place the economy on a more sustainable growth path In the rest of the region growth will pick up as exports firm in line with strengthening global activity and the impact of domestic adjustment in large ASEAN countries eases Significant uncertainties remain about the sustainability of the global recovery and global financial conditions are likely to tighten The short term priority in several countries is to address the vulnerabilities and inefficiencies created by an extended period of loose financial conditions and fiscal stimulus In China the authorities need to strike a balance between containing growing risks from rising leverage and meeting the indicative growth targets Over the longer term the focus in most countries must be on structural reforms to enhance export competitiveness The report's special section focuses on education international migration and the policy priorities for the Pacific Island Countries Economic Report of the President Transmitted to the Congress United States.
