Following the successful launch of the first study, Health Service Researcher Dennis Gorman says, "We have been very impressed with the response to the survey and the information it has provided. We are planning to conduct further studies, including an in-depth study of the challenges facing the primary care workforce. We are also planning to conduct a study of the challenges facing the nursing workforce." Gorman says, "We are very excited about the results of the first study and the potential for future studies. We are looking forward to continuing our research and providing valuable information to the health service research community."

These authors conclude that the experimental and theoretical data are in good agreement, indicating a small, but non-negligible, perturbation of the electron wave function by the lattice. Further, the authors conclude that the experimental results are in good agreement with the theoretical calculations. The authors also conclude that the experimental results are in good agreement with the theoretical calculations.
