Moswete, 2022-05-31 This edited collection focuses on tourism development sustainability and local change in southern Africa The book offers a range of both conceptual and applied perspectives that address various changes in southern African tourism and community development relations The key drivers of change that include climate change and globalization form the context for the diverse and interesting set of case studies from the region The main conceptual grounds of the book cover sustainability sustainable development goals SDGs responsibility vulnerability adaptation resilience governance local development and inclusive growth In this book sustainability is seen as one of the most important issues currently facing the tourism sector affecting all types and scales of tourism operations and environments in the region Tourism is an increasingly important economy in the southern African region and the industry is creating changes for communities and environment while also facing major challenges caused by global trends and changes The book offers a case study driven approach to sustainability needs of tourism development in local community contexts The case study chapters are linked through the book's focus on sustainable tourism and local community development Through emphasizing the need to understand both global change and local contexts in sustainable tourism development this book is a valuable resource for all those working in the field Contemporary South Africa and the Political Economy of Regional Development Methembe Mdlalose, Isaac Khambule, Nene Ernest Khalema, 2025-02-21 South Africa's struggle in balancing its domestic needs while playing a dynamic developmental role in the African region and global context exposes a complex web of relations shaped by its geostrategic location on the continent and the world and the staggering legacies of colonialism and apartheid. As such, understanding the complexities of the global economy and of South Africa's place in it is of great importance. This book builds upon an existing body of literature which has demonstrated that while the post-apartheid South African state has recast its nation building goals with advances having been made notably in the area of a stellar post-apartheid constitution, policy directives and democratic political integration, economic integration and policy implementation presents a projection of captured interests where big business concerns are entrenched in the post-apartheid state's apparent neo-liberal turn. The main focus of the book is to contextualise issues relating to three main trends in global discourses on development which are significant for South Africa and indeed for the study of the political economy of regional development in the country from the prism of South Africa as a global capitalist state. These trends include the impact of globalisation, regionalisation and the marginalisation of South Africa and indeed the African continent in the global economy, thus unpacking the possible role that South Africa might play in regional development. This volume will be a valuable resource to academics, researchers and students in the fields of regional studies, economics and political theory as well as policymakers, planners and local economic development practitioners.

African Perspectives on South-South Migration Meron Zeleke, Lahra Smith, 2024-04-01. This book investigates the diverse and dynamic forms of migration within Africa. Centring themes of agency, resource flows and transnational networks, the book examines the enduring appeal of the Global South as a place of origin, transit and destination. Popular media, government pronouncements and much of the global research discourse continue to be oriented towards migration from the Global South to the Global North, despite the fact that the vast majority of migration is South-South. This book moves beyond these mischaracterisations and instead distinctly focuses on the agency of African migrants and the creative strategies they employ while planning their routes within and across the African continent. Case studies explore the flow of resources such as people, money, skills and knowledge throughout the continent while also casting a light on the lived experiences of migrants as they negotiate their sometimes precarious and vulnerable positions. Underpinned by intensive empirical studies, this book challenges prevailing narratives and provides a new way of thinking about South-South Migration. Composed by a majority of scholars from the Global South, the book will be crucial reading for researchers, students and policy makers with a focus on South-South Migration, Migration and Inequalities, Migration and Development and Refugee and Humanitarian Studies. understanding and improving small towns in South Africa      South Asia's Transition from Agrarian to Industrialized Economy Kazuo Tomozawa,Koichi Fujita,2024-12-23 This book analyses the transition of South Asian nations from agrarian to industrialized economies which is accompanied by a widening gap between agricultural and non agricultural growth rates and a greater income disparity between farmers and urban residents The chapters contributed by experts in the field analyze various issues in the transitional process of economic development in South Asia by focusing mainly on India s agricultural adjustment problem and the issues concerning industrial sectors The book deals first with challenges related to the farmers struggles including traders and processors and how they can adapt to the more sophisticated market demand for their products emerging mainly in urban areas or even abroad It then focuses on the developments in the non agricultural sector introducing a global value chain GVC perspective It finally analyses trends in labor migration and labor markets closely linked to the agricultural and non agricultural sectors This book is a valuable addition to the field of Development Economics and South Asian Economics      Economics Pieter Cornelis Smit,1996 This text provides an introduction to the central tenets of economic theory Each section of the book takes the reader from the elementary to the more advanced theories and applications and is written from a Southern African perspective

China-Africa and an Economic Transformation Arkebe Oqubay,Justin Yifu Lin,2019-04-15 This is an open access title available under the terms of a CC BY NC ND 4 0 International licence It is free to read at Oxford Scholarship Online and offered as a free PDF download from OUP and selected open access locations Africa s recent progress in economic growth has been uneven across countries and has not translated into structural transformation Although economic ties between China and Africa have made a positive contribution this engagement has been uneven shaped by variations in strategic approach policy ownership and implementation capacity among African governments As China undergoes major economic rebalancing to upgrade to an innovation driven economy this is bound to affect China Africa relations offering both opportunities and challenges Authored by leading scholars on Africa China and China Africa relations this volume brings together stimulating and thought provoking perspectives and insightful analyses Focusing on Africa s economic development it looks at core areas of structural transformation productive investment and industrialization international trade infrastructure development and financing China Africa relations are considered in the context of the global division of labour and power and through the history and contexts of both China and Africa a very diverse continent This volume seeks to fill the gap in the existing literature steer policy and scholarly debate on the progress and trajectory of China Africa cooperation and analyze China s development path as a source of learning for Africa

Structural Transformation in South Africa Antonio Andreoni,Pamela Mondliwa,Simon Roberts,Fiona Tregenna,2021 Taking South Africa as an important case study of the challenges of structural transformation Structural Transformation in South Africa offers a new micro meso level framework and evidence linking country specific and global dynamics of change with a focus on the current challenges and opportunities faced by middle income countries Detailed analyses of industry groupings and interests in South Africa reveal the complex set of interlocking country specific factors which have hampered structural transformation over several decades but also the emerging productive areas and opportunities for structural change The structural transformation trajectory of South Africa presents a unique country case given its industrial structure concentration and highly internationalized economy as well as the objective of black economic empowerment Structural Transformation in South Africa links these micro meso dynamics to global forces driving economic institutional and social change This include digital industrialization global value chain consolidation financialization environmental and other sustainability challenges which are reshaping structural transformation dynamics across middle income countries like South Africa While these new drivers of change are disrupting existing industries and interests in some areas in others they are reinforcing existing trends and configurations of power The book analyses the ways in which both the domestic and global drivers of structural transformation shape and in some cases are shaped by a country s political settlement and its evolution By focusing on the political economy of structural transformation the book disentangles the specific dynamics underlying the South African experience of the middle income country conundrum In so doing it brings to light the broader challenges faced by similar countries in achieving structural transformation via industrial policies

Congruences in the Theories and Practices of Economics and War Michael McKinley,1997

South Africa and the World Economy in the 1990s Pauline H. Baker,Alex Boraine,Warren Krafchik,1993 In this book leading economists and policy advisers from the U S Asia Latin America and Africa discuss critical issues facing the South African economy in the coming years

Consumer Behaviour Leon G. Schiffman,Joseph Wisenblit,Sam Brewer (MBA),2023 Understand modern challenges in South African markets Consumer Behaviour Global and Southern African Perspectives 2nd edition discusses the behaviour of consumers in the South African environment Aimed at marketing and consumer behaviour students in South African higher education institutions the South African text was written and adapted from the fully updated 12th US edition of Schiffman s and Wisenblit s Consumer Behaviour Through its chapters the authors research consumer behaviour in South Africa and teach in South African higher education institutions The book is divided into five parts with 16 chapters that guide you through the specific issues that marketers and consumer behaviour specialists face in the diverse South African markets and society This text is an invaluable resource for all marketing and consumer behaviour students lecturers and practitioners in South Africa Publisher s description      Multinational Enterprises, Foreign Direct Investment and Growth in Africa Bernard Michael Gilroy, Thomas Gries, Willem A. Naudé, 2004-10-20 How can Africa the world s most lagging region benefit from globalisation and achieve sustained economic growth Africa needs greater investment by Multinational Enterprises MNEs to improve competitiveness and generate more growth through positive spill over effects Despite the fact that Africa s returns on investment averaged 29% since 1990 Africa has gained merely 1% of global Foreign Direct Investment FDI flows The challenge for African countries is how to be a more desirable destination for FDI The study integrates three currents of economic research namely from the literature on endogenous economic growth convergence and regional integration the explanations for Africa s poor growth and the growing understanding of the role of MNEs in a global economy The empirical side of the book is based on an econometric study of the determinants of FDI in Africa as well as a detailed firm level survey conducted in 2000      African Perspectives on Global Development Mahmoud Masaeli, Rico Sneller, 2019-01-22 Africa is not merely an invention with a modern imperial or colonial background Nor is it simply a continent in need of foreign aid from the richer more affluent societies Africa might be economically needy politically unstable and in part socially chaotic and suffering from civil wars and social unrest However the continent and its peoples are certainly different from the negative image portrayed in the mass media Africa had been the cradle of civilization in the pre colonial era and is today undergoing a diverse cultural philosophical and spiritual development with great potential contributing to contemporary debates around the ethics of globality The novelty of this book derives from its multidisciplinary approach Although the authors generally come from the fields of development and economics global studies political science philosophy and ethics and sociology they present Africa s alternative view of human wellbeing in order to provide theories and policy recommendations which inspire the specific developmental patterns for the growth of the continent The volume discusses the meaning of development for the continent by drawing on culture identity ethnicity and philosophy of nature The contributors examine a variety of issues and themes directly related to the opportunities provided by globality to promote the development of the continent They also discuss solutions for underdevelopment and poverty and how those perspectives might be effectively integrated into the global agenda for the development of Africa      Financial and Investment Sector Integration in Southern Africa Leon Pretorius, 1999      Prospects for Peace and Development in Southern Africa in the 1990s Larry A. Swatuk, 1991-07 As we move into the final decade of the twentieth century the struggle for peace and development in Southern Africa continues Recent events national regional and global suggest that the long battle against apartheid may soon be over In South Africa Mandela has been released the ANC unbanned and the Pretoria Minute provides the point of departure for talks about talks Namibia is now independent Embattled regimes in Angola and Mozambique have begun negotiating with formerly unrecognized guerrilla movements toward peace and reintegration It would seem then that prospects for peace development and the lifting of racial oppression have never looked better in the sub continent Upon closer scrutiny however it may seem that this process is fragmented fragile and by no means assured of success This collection of essays taken from an international symposium held at Dalhousie University to coincide with Namibia's independence focuses on these and other recent events in order to assess the prospects for peace and development in this region in the 1990s and speculate on the role to be played by external state and non state actors therein By emphasising the post Cold War post destabilization structural adjustment policies period this monograph seeks to make a novel contribution to the on going debates about development democracy and a post apartheid South and Southern Africa Co published with the Dalhousie University Centre for African Studies [The Rise of the BRICS in Africa.
